For the prevention and cure o
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
is recommended
HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor s feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of person can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

French Creek Boarding School.

The following is published for the information of Parents:

HAVING long believed that a School on a plan different from most others in many respects, would be beneficial to society, and apprehending that with all its cares, and the responsibility inseparable from such a concern, I could more cheerfully devote my time to the education of children than to any other business, I have concluded to establish a BOARDING SCHOOL for GIRLS—With this view I have purchased the FRENCH CREEK FARM, four miles east of the yellow springs, on the Norristown and Philadelphia road, situated in Pikeland and Vincent townships, Chester county, twenty-seven miles from Philadelphia, combining many conveniencies for the support of such an institution; and having let the farm, etc. in a way calculated to supply the family with provisions, I propose to devote my attention, with the aid of suitable assistants, to the education of the children who may be placed under my care.

In selecting the pupils, it is not proposed to be governed entirely by their ages, nor to require that they shall all be members of the religious society of Friends; but as the school rules will be very few in number and very simple, it is my wish that none may be sent contrary to their own inclination, nor any one who would not be like'y to be good examples to the other scholars, and treat them with kindness and affection.

The price for board and tuition will be two hundred Dollars per annum, one quarter always to be paid in advance—no restrictions respecting the kind of clothing are intended, nor respecting the frequency of the changes that parents may require; the washing will be charged at the ordinary price per dozen—children may be admitted for one quarter only, and such as are entered for a longer period, may nevertheless be removed at the expiration of any quarter.—The communication with Philadelphia will be frequent and easy by stage, and a house of entertainment kept by the farmer for the accommodation of persons having business at the school.

Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography and the use of Maps and globes, will be taught, together with such other branches as the progress of the children and experience may render expedient. The school to open the first of the 5th month next. For further information apply to Edward Stabler, Alexandria, or to

"DON'T BELIEVE IT JO."

My uncle Tim, a thoughtful wight,
Who watch'd my early youth,
Was fond of every sentence trite,
That wore the face of truth;
And when through life, alone to steer,
Ambition bade me go,
He only whisper'd in my ear,
"Don't, don't believe it Jo."

To Fame, my suit I first address'd—
She heard my ardent prayer—
With love of glory fired my breast,
And cured my soul's despair:
I follow'd long—but reason came,
With silent step and slow,
And louder than the blast of fame,
Cried, "Don't believe her Jo."

Then Pleasure, next resolv'd to try,
A wanton fill'd my arms;
Warm'd in the sunshine of her eye,
I revell'd in her charms:
But short her reign, for conscience woke
To find me sunk so low,
I listen'd, and the spell was broke
With "Don't believe her Jo."

Intemperance now I swift pursued,
And madly grasp'd the bowl—
Inflam'd and poison'd all my blood,
And strove to drown my soul:
'Twas vain—true Friendship loudly cried,
The goblet's joys forego—
And e'en the fiend himself replied,
"Don't, don't believe ME Jo."

Fame, Pleasure and Intemp'rance spurn'd,
Heart-sicken'd and decay'd,
To virtue's path again I turn'd,
And sought Religion's aid;
She smil'd, and with a holy tear
Embalm'd each wound of wo,
Then softly whisper'd in my ear,
"Believe—believe ME Jo."

Now homeward, as I wend my way,
Each toil and duty o'er,
If e'er my wayward fancy straw,
And tell me I am POOR—
From Virtue's smile the truth direct
Must still forever flow,
And conscience will the lie detect,
With "Don't believe it Jo."

VILLAGE MINSTREL.

HOW TO LOOK FOR LOST PROPERTY.

A countryman had driven his horses into the woods to graze, and when he came in the evening to drive them home, a gray horse was missing. He looked a great while for him, and ran about the neighborhood to no purpose. At length he met a man on horseback, and asked him if he had seen his grey horse. "No, (said he) but have you looked for him?" "To be sure, (answered the countryman) every where." "Every where! (returned the horseman) have you looked for him in the crow's nest on that tree?" "No, (said the countryman) how should he come up there?" "That is all the same to you, (replied the other) only climb up: one must look for things where there is the least reason to expect them: if they were in the place one supposes them, they would not be lost." The countryman (who had no answer to this,) began climbing up the high tree; and when he had got hardly halfway up, he cried out joyfully, "I have found him! I have found him!" "So I thought," said the man on horseback, and rode away. Now the countryman had not indeed found the horse in the nest; but as crows build upon the highest trees, he could overlook the whole wood, and then saw his horse grazing in a field beyond it.

ANECDOTE.

Lately a gentleman from the eastward asked a person on board one of the Delaware steam-boats, how long it would take them to reach ——? He was answered, "The best end of three quarters of an hour." Brother Jonathan ruminated upon this ambigous answer for some time, and at last finding himself unable to determine the precise time when he should arrive at the long-looked for place of destination, calmly said, "Pray, sir, which do you call the best end of three quarters of an hour?" His instructor (somewhat tickled, and perhaps a little nettled by this apt interrogation) quickly replied, "Why the biggest end, to be sure." Thus the quotation being settled nor altogether to the satisfaction of our impatient traveller, he turned away, saying, "If you were in as much haste as I am, you would think the least end the best!"

ALEXANDRIA:

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 17.

Should the nations of Europe be cruel and rash enough to shape their opinions of the people of the United States by the samples held forth to them in our public prints, they must soon entertain a very humiliating conception of our moral and political character. The friends of freedom in particular, who are more thickly set in that quarter of the world than our liberty brawlers by trade, or the knaves who employ them, or the tools who are duped by them, would have us to believe, will regard with astonishment and concern the departure, they will naturally enough conclude us to be guilty of, from all the salutary principles for which our early course obtained us credit; and they will be the more disappointed and astonished, because they had confidently held up the United States as an evidence of the truth of their arguments, in opposition to those, who by inferences deduced from the errors and abuses of the ancient democracies, and above all by those drawn from the mischievous effects of democracy in France, have long maintained that republics are vicious, and fraught with the most pernicious effects to society—pernicious to national character—subversive of social security and happiness, and contaminating to public and private morality. The enemies of republicanism will now remind them of the sanguine hopes entertained, and bold promises made on behalf of that species of government, as it was then in process experimental, and would soon be established, by proof practical in the new world. "When we insisted, (they will say) that as a republic America would be ambitious, turbulent, rapacious and unjust to other nations, as republics ever have been—that at home it would be individually intolerant, tyrannical, selfish and morose (that is to say that those would be the feelings and habits of the majority of the individuals who should compose it, or in other words be the TON and fashion of the population)—that mutual love and mutual benevolence, and all those refined sentiments which distinguish man from brutes, in an ascending scale of melioration—the more noble from the gross, and by insensible gradations towards a state of spiritualized excellence, at length elevates men to a condition next to angels, would be extinguished in a swinish indulgence of the worst human infirmities—that dishonesty, not concealed, but open, bold, boastful, and proud of its deformity, would arise out of that indulgence—that, as usual, war would follow, and an unappeasable itch for war, as the instrument of wrong, become the appetite of the more active and enterprising of our population, to the ruin of domestic morals, the disturbance of the laws of vicinage, and the misery and annoyance of foreign nations; you still said that we were mistaken, that we were prejudiced, that we saw every thing belonging to the subject with a jaundiced eye—and that the constant vigilance and jealous superintendence of the people, rendered effective in its operation by the powerful agency of that all powerful instrument a pure and free press, would render ambition impotent, throw violation of national rights entirely out of their system, and give that republic for ages to the undisturbed enjoyment of peace—and in short, that it would be the opening of a new and a short road to the millenium.—But now look to the public journals of that republic and be convinced of your fond and foolish error.

"Behold a nation to the government of which tyranny is unknown, and which yet is subject to the scourges of thousands of mean and unprincipled tyrants, the bottom dregs of society!—Behold a press intended by the beneficent authors of that independence of theirs, (the establishment of which had our hearfelt prayers and good wishes) perverted into a mighty engine of faction—a battering ram for the demolition of peace and order—a Pasquin's mutilated image, where every filthy lampoon, every malignant libel is stuck up for the amusement of the rabble—where the rights of the citizen are trampled under foot, the feelings of innocent and even unoffending innocence are sacrificed to personal venom or political fraud—where even the most virtuous actions of a virtuous and magnanimous government are traduced and endeavored to be thwarted and contravened, national robbery recommended, and the conduct of that government held up to odium and suspicion, and its motives and purposes impeached and insulted, because it endeavors to rescue the nation from the indelible stain of committing an outrage on a neighboring nation, that would include in its omnivorous injustice and profligacy, every constituent of baseness, cowardice, violence and fraud."

Under the pressure of circumstances of necessity which must be allowed to justify the aggression, the cabinet of the United States march an army into the Spanish territories in Florida, avowing that it is their determination to withdraw that army as soon as the object for which it was introduced there, and in which nothing hostile to Spain was involved, should be completely effected. Few are so ignorant of the political composition of our country as not to know that there exists in it a strong faction of whose views, objects and principles, it may be enough to say that they resemble those of that particular breed, which in the French managerie of wild animals went by the the name of jacobin—a breed which can be kept from disturbing the harmony of society whereever they can find their way only by direct coercion, as was done by Bonaparte, or by clearing away all pretext for turbulence. The conduct of our administration, it was hoped by some, had accomplished the latter by its moderation, justice and wisdom; but hoped in vain—and sure those who knew the nature of hat kind of political sect ought not to have overlooked the evident truth, that in dealing where men of such principles are active, government will ever be reduced to the very mortifying alternative of abstaining from all just and honorable acts, or incurring their hatred and opposition. The plan upon which Mr. Monroe has conducted the national affairs, therefore, must confer upon him an indefeasible title to their resentment; and the business of Florida was exactly calculated to bring it to an intelligible issue.

CURIO.

A London paper observes that "the post chaises which run between New-York and Philadelphia, a distance of near one hundred miles, perform the journey daily in 10 hours—an expedition, we believe, unexampled in any part of the world."

QUARANTINE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN.

John F. Mansony, Esq. Consul from the Grand Duke of Tuscany for the New-England States, and residing in Boston, (says the Boston Intelligencer,) deserves the highest approbation of the American merchants generally, and of those of that place in particular, for his successful exertions in persuading his government to reduce the quarantine upon vessels which may arrive at the ports, under the Tuscan jurisdiction.—The merchants of Leghorn we understand have made repeated representations upon this subject—but their applications for a reduction of the quarantine, have always proved fruitless. Mr. Mansony has fortunately convinced his government of the propriety of the measure they have adopted; and the quarantine upon all vessels, with a certificate of health from the consul in Boston, in future, will continue only ten days. The value of these services will be fully realized by the merchant, and especially felt by those, who after a tedious passage to Leghorn, without a sick individual on board their ships, have been detained 25, 30, and even 40 days longer, without any communication with the shore—thus adding the great expense of delaying the voyage, to the other miseries of procrastination.

COPPERAS MINE.

Dr. Conant and a number of persons associated with him, have commenced the manufacturing of Copperas at the mines lately discovered near Zanesville, Ohio. It is said that the Copperas is equal to any in the world, and that it is sold at a lower price than that which is imported.

ELOPEMENT OF CAPT. WRIGHT.

Capt. Wright, of noted memory, has broken his parole of honor, and absconded. On the 26th ult. (the day previous to his disappearing,) he addressed the following note to the Governor:—

"SIR—On the 28th of May last, I was arrested by order of his excellency. Since that time I have waited in the expectation that a Court Martial would be ordered for my trial. No charge has yet made its appearance against me I therefore pray that your excellency would withdraw the arrest. If you should think proper not to do so, suffer me to call and see you, as I have business of importance.

(Signed) OBED WRIGHT."

To this communication, no answer was returned. His fears, we understand, were considerably excited by the premature statement in the Savannah Republican, of the determination of the President of the United States to have him tried before the Federal Court for muder. Dreading a long and loathsome imprisonment in jail, and probably apprehending from the 'hue and cry' which had been raised against him, that his conduct would not be impartially investigated, he took the fatal resoltuion to flee from justice.

A reward of 500 dollars has been offered by the Executive for his apprehension.—The Deputy Marshal and Assistant Agent for Indian affairs, arrived here on Thursday with a warrant to take him into the custody of the civil authority—but the "bird had flown."

ENGLISH ELECTIONEERING.

Mr. Wooler and Mr. Cobbett, are rival candidates from Coventry, for a seat in the British parliament. At one of the meetings held for the purpose of recommending the former gentleman to the suffrages of the electors, the speaker said, it might be some satisfaction to the friends of Mr. Wooler to know, that out of 400 Coventry-men, more than one half were willing to go, even barefooted, to vote for him; and it would really seem, from what followed, that he had not misrepresented their zeal; for before the meeting dispersed, the friends of Mr. Wooler tore down the poll of their opponents, and a battle royal ensued, in which there were, of course, many broken heads. At length, some of the most active of the Wooler party were seized and lodged in the watch house; but those who remained outside immediately rallied, unroofed the prison, and set the friends of freedom once more at liberty. What followed at the next day's polling, we are yet to learn.

Dr. E. Porter, of Easton, Pennsylvania, has discovered a preparation capable of producing light without any sensible heat.—This is one of the grand desiderata for which Franklin and Newton sought in vain.

BURGLARY.

About one o'clock yesterday morning, Alderman Badger heard a noise at the back window of his dwelling, which he at first supposed was caused by his cat; the noise however increasing, he threw open the sash of the back window of the second story, but could see nothing. He went to bed, and again heard the noise, got up and passed into the front room, threw open the sash, and called to the watchman, who at that time was passing along Sixth street, directed him to go to the back part of his house, and he would meet him there; the watchman proceeded to the place, and found that the shutter of the back window had been bored with a large auger in three different places. Hearing a person in the adjoining yard, the watchman pursued him; the fellow jumped over the fences from yard to yard, until he came to the one in the rear of the house occupied by Mrs. Physick, where finding himself so closely pursued by the watchman that he could proceed no further this way, he changed his course and ran with such force against the kitchen door that it burst open and he entered the house.

Alderman Badger went round to the front door of Mrs. Physick's house and alarmed the family; the door was opened, the magistrate admitted, and on proceeding into the back room, perceived the thief running hastily into the front parlor, pursued him, and by this time the watchman had made his way up stairs. The thief finding his retreat cut off from the door, ran with great force against one of the front windows, broke through lights of glass, bent the bolt and bursted the shutters nearly open. He was at length with great difficulty apprehended by the alderman and watchman, and discovered to be a very stout black fellow, whom alderman Badger had in the course of his official duties offended, and who, it is supposed, was breaking into the house for the purpose of taking his revenge.

In the course of yesterday morning, he was brought up before the Mayor, and committed to answer for his offences at the next court of Oyer and Terminer.

The following amusing memoranda are copied from an old Diary, kept by an American gentleman who resided in London during our revolutionary war. These minutes are taken from a note under the head "Distinguished Characters," and handed to us for publication. [National Intellig'r.

"I again met the worthy Doctor OGLE, Dean of Winchester, in Shelburne-house library, with Doctor Price, (which is very near the Dean's house in Berkley square.) It began to rain, and I yielded to Doctor Ogle's solicitation to dine, although I had just promised Doctor Price to attend him to Hackney for a packet to Doctor Franklin. I never partook of a pleasanter dinner, as, after getting the interesting news of the day from the St. James's palace, (for the Dean is clerk of the closet to his mastesty, and is frequently in waiting on the royal family) I there met lord Euston, (son to the duke of Grafton) very soon after his elopement with one of the queen's maids of honor; also, the witty and facetious Mr. Sheridan, then paying his addresses to Miss Ogle, the dean's daughter, who was doing the honors of her father's table; and last, though not least in my estimation and regard, bishop Watson, whom I had known at Oxford. I shall never forget his predictions and his liberal converse upon religious sectaries; his admiration of the style of American state papers, the declaration of independence, &c.; his general philauthropy; his encomium on the mildness of American laws and institutions, inviting and opening her arms to the enlightened and industrious of all nations, &c. The bishop joined in ridiculing the yet favorite topic among the tory courtiers, warring for the balance of power!! emphatically saying, Europe would likely soon have but two or three powers to rule, or rather "misrule" its people, and those would likely be Russia, Austria, and France, and that America would assuredly become the first naval power.

"N. B. Dean Ogle is brother to the late regal Governor of Maryland, and enquired much after that family in Maryland, as his nearest of kindred.

"Miss Ogle was questioning lord Euston, as to the fact then stated in the daily papers, about the two laconick epistles which passed between the Duke of Dorset and Lord Euston. He, the duke, having helped the run away-maid of honor into the post-chaise, from the queen's palace, and laying his injunction of, "mind lord Euston to write from the first stage, and you will meet a letter from me at Gretna Green." The return post-chaise brought the duke of Dorset the following:

"I am the happiest dog alive.
"Yours, EUSTON."

And he met at Gretna Green the following answer:

"Every dog has his day.
"Yours, DORSET."

"Mr. Sheridan, always ready at quotations, mentioned his seeing the following lines scratched on a pane of glass, at the next Inn to Gretna Green, where the run-away lovers always stop to prepare for the blacksmith's marriage of them in Scotland:

"Ye loving fair ones keep this truth in view,
"Few hasty marriages are happy too."

"It caused a fine laugh against Sheridan, on the Dean's saying, very good naturedly, (for Sheridan was soon after his son-in law) I suppose you were the author of the verse, while you were runing away with Miss Linley—the famed maid of Bath, a first rate musical performer, and to whom Mr. Sheridan was said to be but a bad husband."

HORRID TRANSACTION.

We learn from Junius, that some day in the latter part of last week, a stranger was murdered in that town by two men who have been apprehended and committed to gaol. The circumstances, as far as we can learn, are as follow: The deceased, who was on horseback, called at a tavern, and ordered something for his horse and something to drink—and being about to pay his bill, handed a piece of gold which the woman attending could not change; he then took out a half dollar, which as our informant states, had some particular mark on it, but it being difficult to make the change, it was agreed to leave the bill unpaid, while he should go to a place (for which he had previously enquired) about a mile distant from the tavern across lots, where he had some business to attend to, and in the mean time, leave his horse to feed. Two men, (also strangers) said to be Irishmen, were present and had witnessed all that had passed—and about this time left the house. After the deceased had been absent some little time, one of the two men, before mentioned, returned, and called for something to drink, and offered a half dollar, which the woman recognized as being the same that had but a few minutes before been offered by the deceased—this circumstance excited suspicion, and he was apprehended, and taken along towards the place where the deceased had started for, and they soon met his companion, bearing the portmanteau which the deceased had carried with him from the house. They then immediately confessed what they had done, and pointed out the place where they had concealed the body, under some leaves and other rubbish, by the side of a brook. Our informant did not give us the names of any of the parties.

[No. 2.]

Our guide led us from the catacombs along the Eastern Coasts of the bay, till we arrived at the Boiling Springs. They extend from the upper part of the beach, to within a few feet of the sea—the sand being agitated, they rush with more force, and although the heat is nearly equal to that of boiling water, they cannot be used for the purpose of cooking, notwithstanding several travellers have affirmed, that an egg may be boiled in them in a few moments. From the colour, they appear strongly impregnated with iron, and they certainly contain more salt than sea water.

The next object that excited our curiosity was a subterranean passage formerly, in all probability, the crater of a volcano. The smell of sulphur on entering was very perceptible, and the heat became almost insupportable after penetrating a little distance. In a few moments, we found ourselves perspiring so profusely, that we were under the necessity of returning. The interior caverns have never been explored, and were travellers to believe all the stories that the guides usually tell relative to this place, they might almost fancy themselves at the entrance of Pluto's regions.

About a mile from the bottom of the bay, are situated the ruins of what must once have been a large city. Whether they composed the ancient capital or not, no one could inform me. Its complete destruction must be attributed to earthquakes, although our guide, who was a Greek, intimated with tears in his eyes, that it owed its rum to the Turks. We however paid but little attention to his remarks on that head, knowing that the Turks, if they never repair, seldom destroy. We saw the ruins of several convents and a few churches that appeared, formerly, to have been of some note—but the modern places of worship are the vilest things imaginable. On being hard pressed for my opinion of subjects, which the Priest said were from the Scriptures and with which the walls were daubed, I fortunately guessed right in one or two instances as to the idea intended to have been conveyed by the painter, which evidently gave them great delight. Nothing can be more desolate than this place, and owing to its being located on a marshy plain, malignant fevers prevail every autumn, which have nearly swept off all its inhabitants, for at present, there are not above an hundred, and they appear sickly, and emaciated.

Our attention was drawn to a miserable cottage, while passing over the ruins, by cries of distress. We found they proceeded from several women, clothed in white, sitting round a table, on which was laid the body of a child, that our guide informed us had died that day, and he remarked that it was customary to continue these lamentations for several hours previous to burying the deceased. This scene, combined with the feelings created from reflecting on the uncertainty of life and earthly enjoyments, which were never more fully pourtrayed than at this moment, caused many melancoly sensations, which I could not entirely dissipate during my stay at the island.

Melos appears almost entirely composed of volcanic matter, the surface of the ground is covered, in most parts with pumice stone; and large quantities of brimstone are found all over the Island. Earthquakes are very common, but appear to excite little notice among the inhabitants—demonstrating the truth of the common assertion: that the mind, from repetition, can render itself familiar with occurrences in life, that at first excite the most dreadful alarm.

RAN away from the subscriber on Saturday night the 27th ult, a Negro man by the name of JACOB THOMPSON, aged 22 or 23, nearly 6 feet high, very black, and rather a down look when spoken to—he is very apt to put one hand up to his chin when answering questions. He is a very submissive orderly fellow—His clothing that can be recollected consisted of a blue second cloth coat with yellow buttons, nearly new; Russia sheeting shirts and trowsers, and a variety of other clothing not recollected. I fully expect he must have from 150 to 200 dollars with him in money—and very little doubt but he had furnished himself with free papers. Whoever takes up the said fellow, secures him in jail, and retains all moneys and papers he may have on him, shall be entitled to the money found on him, and the above reward if taken out of the District: or twenty dollars if taken within the District of Columbia.

Plaister Land.

The subscriber offers for sale a FARM of 450 acres, being part of the tract whereon he resides, in Fauquier county, Va. More than one-third of this Farm is in timber, and is land of the richest quality. The cleared land is in good heart, having had the advantage of a clover lay, and no soil being more susceptible of plaister improvement. He would also dispose of a lot of 50 acres, the whole of which is in timber, and is firstrate tobacco and meadow land. On this lot has been erected a well built saw mill, contiguous to which at the confluence of Broad and Mill runs) is a most valuable scite for a merchant mill. No property is better worth the attention of a person wishing to engage in such business. On the first mentioned farm are a commodious overseer's house, a new barn, stables, corn houses and negro quarters, and about 20 acres of timothy meadow.

For Sale,

ONE hundred and twenty-five acres of land, being a part of Judge Cranch's purchase of James H. Hooe Esq bending up on South Run, where it empties into Cameron, near the ford on the Colchester road, and extending up that run and up Cameron, including nearly an equal proportion of bottom and hill. 3-10ths of the purchase money will be required in advance; the other 7-10ths in equal annual payments with interest. For terms enquire of Richard M. Scott, or

For Sale,

A VALUABLE FARM, containing between six and seven hundred acres of land, the greater part of which is in timber, and adjoins the land of Charles Thift and Edmond J Lee, esq. and extends to the road from Leesburg to the mill lately known as Miller's Mill, on Goose Creek, and not more than three quarters of a mile from the turnpike road now making. The furthest boundary of this land is not more than three miles from Leesburg; and the nearest, which is in timber, not more than one mile and a half. The timbered land will be laid off into 10 or 15 acre lots, reserving a sufficient quantity for the land now cleared and in cultivation. It is unnecessary to say that this land is as well adapted to plaister as any in that part of the country; and if not sold at private sale previous to the September Leesburg court, will be then offered at public sale, and the terms made known on the day.

There are fifteen or twenty negroes residing on the farm that may be purchased with it if wanted

Valuable Land for Sale.

I WILL sell the farm on which I reside, known by the name of Indian Town, and containing about one thousand acres. It is situated in Charles Co. Md. on Nanjemoy Creek near its mouth, about seven miles from Port Tobacco, and forty from Washington City. Few farms combine greater advantages than this; added to a fertility of soil equal to any in the country, it binds on the creek nearly two miles, which affords great facility in getting its productions to market, and precludes the necessity of much fencing; the creek affords in their seasons, fish and wild fowl in abundance.—The soil is peculiarly adapted to the growth of Tobacco, Wheat and Indian Corn, and the plaister has been found from experience to act on it admirably. There are now about 100 acres in clover, some of which is well set. The improvements are a new two story dwelling house 16 by 40 feet, kitchen, barn, stables, carriage house, with every other necessary out house, the whole in good repair. There is also a wind mill in good order, the toll of which affords meal enough for the support of the farm.—Also, one other tract containing 115 acres in the forest about three miles distant, entirely in the wood. There is a well of excellent water in the yard, and several springs on different parts of the farm. The premises may be viewed, and the terms known by application to the subscriber. Should the above farm be unsold on the 1st of Sept. next, I will lease it for a term of years.

Dr. Thomson's System of Chemistry.

IN FOUR VOLUMES OCTAVO.

THE preceding edition of Dr. Thomson's Chemistry, had acquired so much reputation both in England and upon the continent of Europe, that a new edition, comprising the new facts with which the science had been enriched, and the new views of the subject which extended knowledge had suggested as indispensable, was eagerly looked for by the scientific world. A new edition has accordingly appeared, wherein the former edition of five volumes has been condensed into four.

All the new discoveries, and all the new theories of Chemical Phænomena, have been considered and embraced in the present improved edition: so that it is indispensable to the chemical student, as presenting the only condensed view of the changes and alterations in chemical doctrine, which the discoveries of the last ten years have suggested. No apology therefore can be necessary for reprinting such a book in this country; for the press does not furnish a substitute for it. But, there is so much theoretical suggestion—so much abstruse calculation—so much fact of dubious authority—and so much dubious validity—that notes and illustrations are absolutely necessary, not merely to render the book more useful, but more intelligible.

Under these impressions, I thought fit to write notes in illustration (and sometimes in contradiction) of the work itself, rather than to make any abridgement of it. Those who wish to know the modern views of chemical science, must peruse it; and to very many who will be anxious to study it, elucidation will be necessary. I have endeavoured to supply these, to the best of my ability; regardless whether my own opinions are in dissonance or coincidence with those of my author; leaving to the reader to decide between us.

The work will be published, with notes and illustrations, in four volumes 8vo.

James Kennedy & Son,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from LEE's MEDICINE STORE, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS (is recommended

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of person can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.
